

CALL FOR POSTERS

IEEE Computer Society Bioinformatics Conference

Stanford University, Stanford, CA
August 11–14, 2003

You are invited to submit a poster to the 2003 IEEE Computer Society Bioinformatics Conference (CSB2003). Poster presentations describing original research in almost any area that involves the development and application of advanced computational methods for biological problems are welcome. It is recommended that you submit your abstract as early as possible to avoid disappointment due to space limitations.

CSB2003 will accept 100 posters for presentation, and those accepted posters with abstracts submitted before midnight PDT May 22, 2003 will be published in the IEEE conference proceedings. Proceedings authors are entitled to two pages free of charge and may purchase additional pages for inclusion (and pages in color) for a fee payable to IEEE Publications.

Topics of interest include (but are not limited to):

- Machine Learning
- Data Mining
- Robotics
- Data Visualization
- Regulatory Networks
- Comparative Genomics
- Pattern Recognition
- String & Graph Algorithms
- Genome to Life
- Stochastic Modeling
- Genomics and Proteomics
- Gene Expression Pathways
- Evolution and Phylogenetics
- Molecular Structures & Interactions

Abstracts should be no more than 250 words. Submit poster abstracts electronically using the form available on the Website <http://conferences.computer.org/bioinformatics>.

At least one of the poster authors must be present at the conference. The size of the poster board is 36 x 48 inches (91 x 122 cm). Posters will be affixed to the poster board using push-pins. No electrical support or Internet connections are available in the Poster session area.

The Best Poster will be selected by the Poster Committee and announced at the awards ceremony.

Abstracts must be submitted no later than midnight PDT July 25, 2003. The submitter will be notified of their submission's status within 14 calendar days after submission. In some cases, the committee may request modifications to the abstracts prior to acceptance.
