The IEEE International Conference on Wireless and Mobile Computing, Networking and Communications (WiMob 2009) will be held in Marrakech, Morocco, from 12-14 October.

• SCOPE

The research area of mobile computing has become more important following the recent widespread drive towards mobile ad hoc networks, wireless sensor networks and vehicular ad hoc networks tracking technologies and their applications. The availability of the high bandwidth 3G infrastructures, and the pervasive deployment of low cost WiFi infrastructure and WiMAX to create hotspots around the world serve to accelerate the development of mobile computing towards ubiquitous computing.

WiMob'2009 addresses three main areas:

- Wireless Communications
- Mobile Networking, Mobility and Nomadicity
- Ubiquitous Computing, Services and Applications

This conference aims to stimulate interactions among participants and enable them to exchange new ideas and practical experience. WiMob'2009 is the fifth in a series of annual conferences: two times in Montréal (QC) Canada in 2005 and 2006, in New York USA in 2007 and the last one in Avignon France in 2008. This conference will be comprised of the following three symposia:
